The British Empire begins the war at war with Germany and the Austro-Hungarian Empire. Though due to its global reach, the British more so than any Allied nation must worry about enemy forces in all theatres of the war. So the Brits must prepare for war with the Ottoman Empire, worry about the German colonies in Africa and Asia as well as worry about protecting its considerable income from Naval Trade Resources. The British Empire can marshal the most resources against the Central Powers, but it is spread out and must first gather its forces to be effective.
